

Putnik i istraživač koji obožava Srbiju i svet, ali njegovo srce pripada Beogradu

Traveller and explorer who adores Serbia and the world, but his heart belongs to Belgrade

Aleksandar Matić, fotograf iz Beograda, obožava putovanja i istraživanje novih destinacija i najviše voli da fotografiše gradske pejzaže i prirodu. Njegove rade objavile su mnoge svetske i domaće stranice, časopisi i portalni. Na Instagram stranici preovlađuju fotografije Beograda, kao i slike popularnih evropskih destinacija.
– Ovim putem vam predstavljam Golubačku tvrđavu, koja se nalazi na dva sata vožnje od Beograda i predstavlja idealno mesto za izlet. Golubački grad zidan je kao neosvojivo vojno utvrđenje, koje je kao takvo ostalo sve od prvog pominjanja u istorijskim izvorima, početkom 14. veka. Nalazi se na samom ulazu u Đerdapsku klisuru i pripada Nacionalnom parku Đerdap – kaže Aca Matić.

Aleksandar Matić, a photographer from Belgrade, adores travelling and exploring new destinations, and most loves photographing city scenes and natural landscapes. His works have been published by many local and global websites, magazine and portals. His Instagram page is dominated by photos of Belgrade and pictures of popular European destinations.

"In this way, I present to you Golubac Fortress, which is located a two-hour drive from Belgrade and represents an ideal place for an excursion. The Golubac citadel was erected as an unconquerable military fortress, and has remained as such since it was first mentioned in historical sources at the start of the 14th century. It is situated at the very entrance to the Đerdap Gorge and belongs to Đerdap National Park," says Aca Matić.
